

REVUE ROUMAINE DE PHILOSOPHIE

Vol. 64

Issue 2

July–December 2020

CONTENTS (in English)

KIERKEGAARD AND CRITIQUE (Guest editor: Ana-Stanca Tabarasi-Hoffmann)

HELENA BŘEZINOVÁ, Kierkegaard on the narrator and his author in Hans Christian Andersen's Only a Fiddler	235
ANA-STANCA TABARASI-HOFFMANN, A literary review: Kierkegaard and the romantic concept of critique	249
SIOBHAN DOYLE, Kierkegaard's critique of religion within the limits of reason. Duty as loving practical action	263
ANDRII SYNITSIA, On the critical reception of Søren Kierkegaard's philosophical ideas by Ludwig Wittgenstein	279
ALEXANDRU MATEI, Barthes, together with Kojève and Kierkegaard. Silence as the utopia of writing	293

PHILOSOPHY AND HISTORY OF SCIENCE

ROGER ARIEW, Atomism in the Novatores and late scholastics	311
DANA JALOBEANU, Francis Bacon on axioms, laws, rules and principles: An overview	325

PHILOSOPHY OF MIND

ION TĂNĂSESCU, The two theories of intentionality in Brentano and Chisholm's ontological and psychological theses	341
DRAGAN JAKOVLJEVIĆ, The fact of knowledge and the validity of knowledge: Between Chisholm and Nelson. A contribution to the discussion	351

LOGIC, ARGUMENTATION THEORY, AND RHETORIC

MARIUS DOBRE, Argument by analogy. Logical landmarks	361
CONSTANTIN SALAVASTRU, The one and the many: The case of rhetoric	373

REVIEW

Moderne Aristotelische Forschungsergebnisse in Rumänien (Hildesheim, Zürich, New York: Georg Olms Verlag, 2020), edited by: Alexandru Surdu, Niels Öffenberg, Marius Augustin Drăghici, Oana Vasilescu (Claudiu Baci)	385
--	-----